Resolving a dispute

Resolving a dispute

Disputes can come in many forms, but it is how you choose to deal with a dispute that could be life-changing, whether through negotiation, Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) or litigation.

Types of dispute

- Will disputes and Inheritance Act claims. Challenges to a Will might include lack of testamentary capacity or undue influence. There may be a claim under the Inheritance (Provision for Family & Dependents) Act 1975. Such disputes and claims are a complex area of law and it is essential that you seek professional advice early.
- Disputes involving land and property. Rights of way and other easements, boundaries and adverse possession are often very emotive disputes.
- Professional negligence claims. We all know mistakes can happen but when a professional is negligent or is in breach of contract, causing financial loss, a claim can be pursued.

Why Walker Foster?

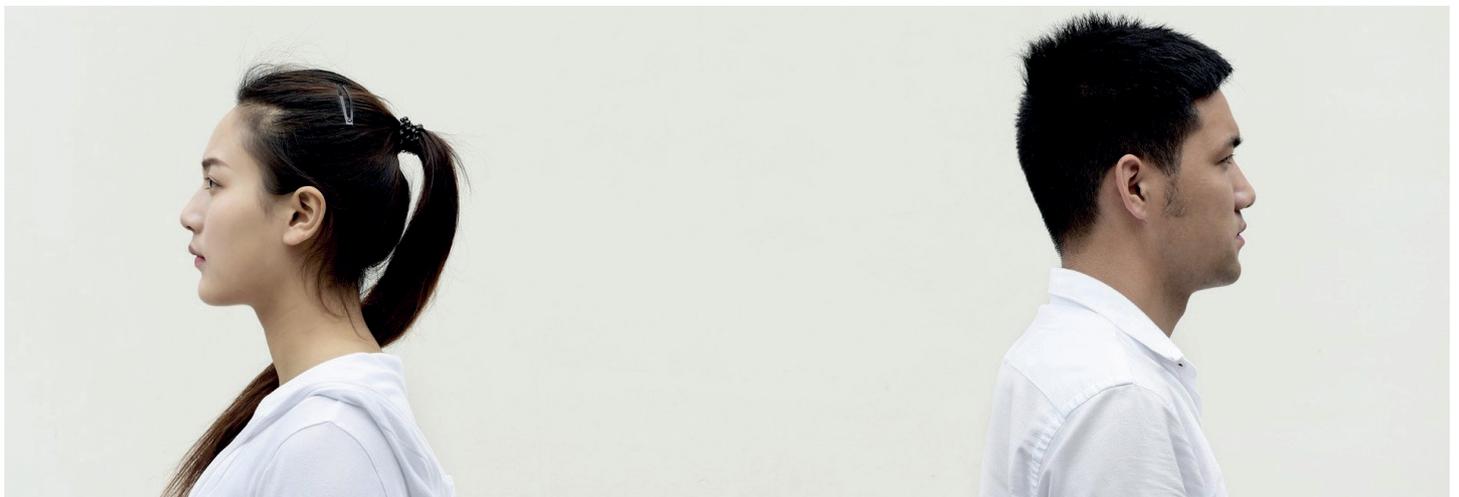

Practical and relevant legal advice is crucial and this is where we deliver. Our Dispute Resolution team has years of experience in helping clients resolve a wide range of disputes, whether they are private disputes between individuals or disputes involving businesses.

In each case we will:
